

Grassland

lush, vibrant grass as far as you can see here, your thoughts are roaming free as your eyes wander around you notice a beetle on the ground its gown has an odd shade of gray ants carrying its wings away an ordinary scene at first glance now a strange sight leaving you in a trance as you see a sharp, green needle piercing through the rotting beetle oh, your mind must be in a maze all your blood drains from your face your vision starts to go black a cold shiver creeps down your back your hands are covered in sweat a throbbing pain is in your head slowly, you forget who you are even your name sounds bizarre you stare blankly into space knowing you're in a different place sunlit but no night and evening a place where human life has no meaning you realize, you too, will later return again to mother nature in this place where all beings amass lastly, they turn into lush, vibrant grass